"Pressestimmen A fascinating and dramatic power struggle over the intriguing question of what nonfiction should, or can, be.--Lydia DavisAn enraging, fascinating, singular book.A whip-smart, mordantly funny, thought-provoking rumination on journalistic responsibility and literary license.Less a book than a knock-down, drag-out fight between two tenacious combatants over questions of truth, belief, history, myth, memory and forgetting.--Jennifer McDonald*The Lifespan of a Fact* might be the most improbably entertaining book ever published. The Lifespan of a Fact is remarkable not only as an intellectual adventure, but for its portrayal of the search for these kinds of truths as a conversation. It is a high-stakes exercise not of surety but of anxiety...open to the production of wonder, but equally to that of doubt, frustration, and betrayal. Über den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende John D'Agata is the author of About a Mountain, Halls of Fame, and editor of The Next American Essay and The Lost Origins of the Essay. He teaches creative writing at the University of Iowa in Iowa City, where he lives.Jim Fingal is now a software engineer and writer in Cambridge, Massachusetts."
