This is a guide for anyone who wants to learn what it's like to work on a mega-yacht, and how to get an entry level job on one. Over the past decade I've worked all types of different jobs, but I would have to say my favorite by far has been working in the yachting industry. If you're a young able-bodied person, and you follow the right steps, you can get a job on a yacht. It's so easy, even a complete diva like me has pulled it off. While I don't consider myself an expert by any means in the wonderful world of yachting, I know what it takes to get your first full-time job, and keep it. When I refer to a "yachtie diva" in this guide, I'm referring to someone who is completely clueless, like I was, when it comes to any thing having to do with yachting. Many people refer to yachtie newbies as "green," but when I was starting out, I was the GREEN QUEEN. You can read manuals and take courses all day, but it's not going to do you any good if you cant even open doors, turn on lights, or talk on your "walkie talkie." So this guide is for all of you aspiring yachtie divas out there, who like me, need to spend a lot more time learning about the more basic aspects of life on a boat. I'm going to walk you through step by step, and take it down to a level that we divas can readily understand. Besides helping you get hired, I'm going to focus on how not to get fired because there's a lot of mistakes you can make early on in the game. I know because I made just about all of them. So learn from Bake's mistakes so you don't look so dumb in front of all those yachtie hotties like I did! This is not an extensive guide to everything you need to know about yachting, this is just to get you on a boat, and help you through your first couple of weeks on board...The three phases of yacht life: Getting Inspired Getting Hired Not Getting Fired So let's see if you've got what it takes to become a yachtie~.
